Sector or field	Cultural activities linked with environmental issues, more particularly forestry issues
Description or summary of the proposed project	The project aims to collect stories concerning the emotion with regard to forestry landscapes evolution in Europe with a sensitive and pluridisciplinary approach including art, sciences, and human sciences. The idea is to explore a processus of collective creation and collection of stories from citizens, artists, searchers and forestry professionals about one topic. We are interested to work on the topic of the transformation of forests. Forests are changing through fires, forestry, sicknesses, or actions of preservation. As inhabitants of territories, we are affected by all these changes around us. We can even experience solastalgia. What testimonies can we offer about it? How do these stories pass the borders? How do our artistic, scientific and citizen visions change or join from one country to another? The goal is to write collective and sensitive stories on forests that transcends the borders. The project aims at connecting multiple fields: forests concerns, art, and citizens engagement. This project of "stories on forestry landscapes" could take many forms like art creation, workshops, conferences, talks with artists, local environmental NGOs, scientific researchers, forestry professionals, and citizens, or even performances.
